TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS IS REALIZED FOR CHURCH

Knights of Columbus Picnic a Huge Success

DECISION IS ANNOUNCED

Miss Lydia Lambert Collects Most Money for St. Jerome's Church

In the neighborhood of $2,000 was realized for St Jerome's Catholic church through the picnic and outing held at Eldora Park yesterday under the auspices of the Charleroi council, No. 956, Knights of Columbus. The success of the outing was somewhat marred by the drizzling rain which fell in the morning, and made the park somewhat damp and soggy, but there was a large crowd present, nevertheless, from Charleroi and other places along the valley.

The chief feature of the outing was the decision of the trip contest, in which five young ladies took part. The result was made known in the evening from the dancing pavilion, and Miss Lydia Lambert was declared the first winner, and Miss Mazie Connell, second winner. The contest was for a trip to Atlantic City as first prize and one to Niagara Falls as second prize, the one collecting the most money for the church being declared first. Through this contest $1,494.50 was realized, the amount turned in by the various contestants being: Miss Lambert, $759.32; Miss Connell, $263.52; Miss Anna Buchanan, $236.60; Miss Lillian Shields, $145.50; and Miss Harriet Wagner [illegible]. The judges were Rev. T. A. [illegible] endonner and J. P. Regan.

There was plenty of amusement provided for all those present during the day at the park. Besides the park amusements there was vaudeville furnished by the Pittsburg Hippodrome, the Wild Man from Borneo, and the Freak Pony, the Gipsy Queen, who told things past, present and future in the person of Miss Ida Carrol attracted much attention.

In the evening there was a vast throng present, and the park was crowded to its capacity. Dancing was the chief attracton, Jenkins orchestra of ten pieces furnishing music. During the entire day a brass band was at the park and furnished selections.

The money realized from the outing will be placed to the credit of the fund being raised for the construction of the superstructure of the church.

LARGE REPRESENTATION FROM ALL OVER COUNTY PRESENT AT CONVENTION

Sunday School Convention Opens at Washington With Large Number of Delegates at Various Sessions

With large crowds from all parts of the county, the 15th annual convention of the Washington County Sabbath School Association opened its sessions yesterday at Wahington. Rev. G. G. Kerr of Charleroi, the county president, presided, and the address of welcome was made by Judge J. A. McIlvaine, to which Rev. Kerr responded. Six hundred children took part in the opening exercises of the morning.

Addresses were made during the various day's sessions by Rev. C. H. Woolston of Philadelphia, Mrs. John Crawford of Bellevue, C. D. Meigs of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Bessie Brooks of New York. Grant Colfax Tuller of New York led the song service, which was especially inspiring. A conference on temperance work was led by Rev. E. S. Hasssler, of Grove City in the afternoon. Last evening the services were devoted to commencement exercises of teachers in the training course, and diplomas were presented by Rev. B. W. Hutchinson of Pittsburg. A banquet was served in the evening to 200 memebrs of the teacher's training classes.

There will be three sessions today and a parade of men will take place in which valley delegations are expected to take part. The Charleroi district is expecting to send 100 men. Commitees were appointed yesterday as follows:

KNOX NOT CONSIDERED AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATE

Not Thought He Will Relinguish Secretary of State Duties, to Accept One of Minor Honor

Nothwithstanding a persistent effort on the part of certain Allegheny county politicians to creace a stampede amorg the Republican delegates of the State convention from that county to Secretary of State P. C. Knox for Governor, the friends of Congressman John K. Tener are not in the least disturbed over his prospects for the nomination. Intelligence is constantly being received from different parts of the State of an increasing sentiment in his favor, and that the political powers in all quarters of the State are sitting up and taking notice of his avail. While other [illegible] are mentioned, Mr. Tener [illegible] decided advantage over all of them by reason of his wide acq[illegible] well known ability and [illegible] his location in the Western part of the State which, in the sequence of political events, is expected to supply the Republican candidate for Governor this term.

Secretary Knox's candidacy is not taken seriously. While he is recognized as first-class Gubernatorial timber, his present position as one of the leading National statesmen is thought to preclude his descent into State politiacs for a minor and temporary honor at best. Having served as Attorney General, United States Senator and Secretary of State, the latter position which he is now filling with honor both to himself and his country, it is not thought he will embarrass the Taft administration by abandoning the most honorable post he now holds.

There is no cessation in the activity of the promoters of the excursion to Harrisburg from Charleroi and the river district, and Mr. Tener will have a most enthusiastic crowd of supporters at the convention. As matters now stand he is decidedly in the lead as the most available candidate, and there is every indication that he will gain in strength between now and the date of the convention.

MONESSEN PEOPLE DONT HAVE TO CALL FOR LONG DISTANCE

A new ruling has been made for Monessen by the Bell Telephone company by which one desiring towns within the district radius need not call for long distance. Much time and annoyance will thus be avoided when calling Bell Vernon, N. Charleroi, Donora and at Monongahela City, points within this limit.

California and Fayette City are no longer in the district radius for subscribers who have had their telephones installed or contracts changed since January 1, 1907. But all subscribers who took on a phone prior to that time or have not changed contract or conditions with the company, still have the two latter towns in the free service list if they have a district phone.

The first named places may be reached direct by merely ringing and calling central, the same as a local number providing the subscriber has a district rate and service. This will be considered a great favor by local people using the telephone regularly.

The new ruling does not apply to Charleroi.

Pfleghart Building a Marvel of Beauty

J. C. BRENTON ARCHITECT

Entire Four Floors Will be Used for Furniture Store.

With the opening of his new furniture store being held today W. B. Pfleghardt is formally dedicating one of Charleroi's most beautiful as well as costliest business blocks. This is the new four story bulding just completed on Fallowfield avenue to be used entirely by Mr. Pefighardt in his furniture business.

The architect for the building was J. C. Hannen, of Charleroi. The Charleroi Lumber company was contracting firm. Regan and Hormell were the contractors for furnishing the heat and A. D. Spencer of Charleroi installed the electric system. The electric elevator, the first for a Charleroi business house, was installed by the Otis Elevator company of Chicago.

The building occupies two lots, 416 and 418 Fallowfield avenue, and extends from Fallowfield avenue the full length of the lots to Long Alley. Efforts were made by the architect and builders to have the structure something out of the ordinary in appearance, and they succeeded admirably. Nothing but the best materials were used in the construction. Vitrified pressed brick were used, and the trimmings are in Indiana limestone. The Roman Corinthian style of architectural decorations was carried out throughout the bulding, and capitals of massive columns on the second floor, are Corinthian. The front of the buiding is what might be termed an open glass front The second story is fronted by two immense windows, between which is the entrance. These windows have large transoms of "three way prism" effect, thus reflecting light to the back and all parts of the room. The third and fourth floors are fronted by large windows the entire width of the buildding.

The basement which is considered the first story is finely equipped to be used as a stock room. All except the fourth floor have metal ceilings, having good effect. The second story has a mezzanine floor. [illegible] lighting of the building is by both gas and electricity. The [illegible] is arranged in the most convenient [illegible] the large furniture stock, which Mr. Pfleghardt will carry. Fathers' Day.

The beautiful custom of "Mother's Day," which is observed by special commemorative church services and individual tributes, the emblem of which is a white carnation, has suggested the question, "Why not a Fathers' Day?" Acting upon this suggestion the officers of the Spokane Ministerial Alliance and Young Men's Christian Association of that breezy city, where they have action and initiative, have fixed Sunday, June 19, for "Fathers' Day," and have suggested the rose as a suitable flower to wear for the occasion.

Some of the constructive teachings from the pulpit that "Fathers' Day" would suggest are: The father's place in the home. The training of children. The safeguarding of the marriage tie. The protection of womanhood and childhood. Whether applied in the light of religion or patriotism, the importance of these qualities is apparent as to requires no argument in their behalf and the need of such a day to be observed over all the country.

There are few occasions when a word is said in public for the "old man" who does the continuous plugging in order that the rest of the family may enjoy themselves and have a good time. If this movement of the Spokane clergy comes to be observed in a National way, the slight annual tribute thus paid will be no more than is deserved by the packhorse of the human family.

A River Boulevard

In these days of organization and combination what's the matter with the auto owners of the valley combining and working for the construction of a river boulevard from the Allegheny county line, where improved roads are already constructed, to the Greene ecounty line? In the matter of pleaure and recreation such a thoroughfare would prove a boon to machine owners, to say nothing of the utility of the project to the trade and commerce of the towns and community along the way.

The pleasure part of such a boulevard, while really the least argument in its favor, is nevertheless one of the strongest motives for its execution. It is needless to dwell upon the utility and benefits of such a thoroughfare. Every business house in Charleroi would gain in trade directly if a continuous improved road were to be built along the river front, and farming and gardening would be given a new stimulus. Nothing in the way of a single material project would add so much direct benefit as this. It is not an impossible project, and all that is necessary is systematic and persistent work to start something and keep it going. If the people demonstrate they want this road it will be constructed.

Borrowed Planks

It is interesting to note that the Democratic platform adopted at the State convention at Allentown Wednesday is composed chiefly of good Republican principles. For instance: Economy, conservation, the income tax, compulsory arbitration, liberal support of the public schools, good roads, increased powers to the Railroad commission. These are the important planks of the platform, notwithstanding they are not issues of the day, as they are already in practice, and their fulfilment is merely a matter of evolution and development by the Republican party that inaugurated them.

The Democrats have borrowed their platform planks from the Republican State administration. As the Connellsville Courier pertinently notes, "Economy in the administration of government is the old cry of the Outs against the Ins. It is worthy of consideration, but it is not to be assumed that those who want in would do any better than those who are in. As for the others, in the language of the Courier, "the Republicans have have working on them while the Democrats have been talking about them."

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The Appeal to Reason, a Socialist publication, wants to know who's a liar, especiallly in Congress. The editor should know there are no George Washingtons nowadays, even in Congress.

It seemed to be sort of a dodging game with the Democrats at the Allentown convention. The power of the Republican party in this State is no stranger to them.

If some of these speakers we hear would try less to make their speeches oratorial masterpieces, and say something once in a while, it would please their audiences much more.

Since it has been found impossible to have the Jeffries-Johnston fight in California, it might be a good idea to try Donora.

If so many people weren't so busy making a living they would go to New York in acceptance of Teddy's invitation to welcome him home.

A woman called to testify in court in New York city, said she didn't like to swear, but when the court insisted she said "damn."

It is not always Satan who puts it into one's head to play an evil trick upon some other human. Sometimes it is one's own idea.

When you go to the farm for your summer vacation, and hear a noise like unto a threshing machine, don't for a minute think it is such. It is only the farmer's boy figuring up the farm's profits on a calculating machine of the latest type.

The adjective "rich" used with the old famer is about as redundant as the adjective "old" used with the noun veteran in prasent day polite talk.

In some cities the chief aim of the city employes seems to be to separate the city from as much of the taxpayers' cash as was possible, and to say that considerable ingenuity is displayed in this endeavor is not exaggerating one bit.

The noted phrase "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," would hardly be applicable to the Foruth of July arrangements being made now.

METHODISTS AND FIRSTS HAVE A BATTLE ROYAL

Presbyterians Too Much for Weslyans However by Two Points

In a pitchers' battle in which the honors were about even, the First Presbyterians won from the Methodists last night by the score of 2 to 0. Three errors were made by each team, and with the scoring these has some bearing. The Presbyterians got their two in the second inning. Oller, first up, contracted a base on the first baseman's error. He stole second, while E. Girard, and F. Larue struck out.

Bastow singled bringing in the one tally. He himself tallied on the error of the catcher when he failed to get the third strike of G. Larue's. The hits of the Firsts were much scattered, one in the first, one in the second and one in the fifth.

The Methodists nearly scored twice, once in the third, when Snyder bid for two bases, and went to third. While strenuously playing the game, he was caught between third and home. In the sixth Snyder singled, and McKean was safe on an error, Snyder going to third on the same error. Then came three outs in swift succession. The score:

ADOLPH, OF COURSE

Fallowfield Ave. Charleroi, Pa.

Flinty Plant Covers.

When Sir Humphry Davy was a boy about sixteen, a little girl came to him in great excitement:

"Humphry, do tell me my these two pieces of cane make a tiny spark of light when I rub them together?"

Humphry was a studious boy who spent hours in thinking out scientific problems. He patted the child's curly head and said:

"I do not know, dear. Let us see if they really do make a light, and then we will try to find out why."

Humphry soon found that the little girl was right. The pieces of cane if rubbed together quickly did give a tiny light. Then he set to work to find out the reason, and after some time, thanks to the observing powers of his little friend and his own kindness to her in not impatiently telling her not to "worry," as so many might have done, Humphry Davy made the first of his interesting discoveries. Every reed, cane and grass has an outer skin of flinty stuff, which protects the inside from insects and also helps the frail looking leaves to stand upright.

What Thieves Won't Steal.

The last thing the woman did before leaving the flat was to put four rings in the clock on the mantel. "So thieves won't get them," she said.

"I should think that would be simply inviting thieves to run away with them," said her friend. "That is a handsome clock, and thieves like handsome clocks."

"They do," said the woman, "but they never will steal this clock. It ticks too loud. No wise thief will run away with a clock that goes like a thrashing machine. It isn't the alarm about his person that he is afraid of, for he can stop the clock, but the occupants of the flat are likely to return before he gets safely away, and if a loud ticking clock is gone they will miss it the minute they step inside the door and maybe give him a hot chase for his plunder."—New York Press.

Nietzsche and the Invalid.

An invalid lady who often met Nietzsche found him the gentlest, kindest and most sympathetic of men. He "implored her with tears in his eyes not to read his books." Such was his knowledge of women that he was thunderstruck to find shortly afterward that the lady at once proceeded to read them all. He was further stupefied by the discovery that, having read them, she was utterly unmoved by the philosopher's unanswerable demonstrations that feeble persons like herself had no right to live and that women were distinguished by this, that and the other objectionable attribute. It must have been a blow to him.—London News.

CHARLES N. HASKELL.

politics. He was a member of the Ohio legislature and once made a campaign for governor of his native state. In 1901 he removed to Muskogee, I. T., and hung out his shingle as a lawyer. He soon gave up his law practice and engaged in railroad building and other construction work. He is a man of some means and has never shown a disposition to antagonize wealth. He insists, however, that public service corporations must pay their fair share of taxes. Mr. Haskell was a member of the Oklahoma constitutional convention and in 1907 was elected the first governor of the new state.

The Oldest.

Three old sports were chatting after a copious dinner, when one of them said, "I bet $5 my name is the oldest."

The bet was immediately accepted, and he produced his card, reading "Mr. Abel."

"Oh, dear $5!" said the second, showing his card. "I am Mr. Adam."

"Mine is the bet," replied the other, producing his card, and they could read "Mr. B. Ginning" printed on it.—Judge's Library.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress. Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in costume, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience."

A Third Need.

"You need," said the expert to the sufferer, "two pairs of glasses, one for reading and one for long distance."

"Can't you make it three pairs?" asked the man who had made a study of his own case. "I'd like some short sighted ones to use on bill collectors."—Nashville American.

Agreed With Him.

Father (calling from head of stairs at 11:30 p. m.)—Jennie, don't you think it's about time to go to bed? Jennie—Yes, papa dear. What on earth keeps you up so late?—Pathfinder.

Spanish Sarcasm.

Americans who suffer, who weep, who even love? We were only acquainted with Americans who made money silently and spent it with a flourish of trumpets. We knew kings of steel and cotton who in moments of mental aberration bought a man-of-war to cross a lake or founded a university to educate their servants. But princes of architecture and princes of copper who, like simple youths of the Italian renaissance, declared war to the death for the beaux yeux of a fair maiden? Impossible! Unthinkable!—Madrid Liberal.

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things. Last Sunday Charlie Evans, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder, said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present.

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely:

"'My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes.'

"'Oh, how awful!' came Fannie's ready gasp.

"'No, not awful at all!' and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. 'I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children.'

"'Dear me, how glad you must have been!' blurted out flustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a handspring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality.

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

Trained.

"My men work well," said a police commissioner, "because they are well trained. Training, you know, is everything."

He paused and smiled.

"Two physicians were discussing," he said, "a certain pretty nurse.

"'Was she a trained nurse?' said the first physician.

"'She must have been,' replied the other. 'She hadn't been in the hospital a week before she was engaged to the richest patient.'"—Washington Star.

The Crater's Mouth.

"Now, Pearl Beem," asked the Wyoming schoolma'am during the geography lesson, "what is it that volcanoes throw up?"

"Wait a minute! I know—don't tell me!" cried Miss Beem excitedly. "It's saliva! Redhot saliva!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Way It Works.

"Did you ever notice how life's arithmatic is generally applied?"

"How?"

"It adds to your sorrows, divides your means, multiplies your cares and subtracts from your pleasures."—Baltimore American.

A Compositor's Blunder.

"In our last number, as we discovered unfortunately too late for correction, we announced that Mr. John Stuart Mill's inaugural address lately delivered before the University of St. Andrews had since been republished by him 'in the form of a five shilling elephant.' Even the most ardent believers in Mr. Mill's powers among our readers will probably have received this announcement with some incredulity. The fact is that by an error of the press the word 'elephant' was substituted for 'pamphlet,' and the mistake, although the proof was read and reread, unluckily escaped the corrector's eye."

More Than One.

"The average woman," said Grumbell, "has but one idea, and that's dress."

"Huh," snorted Marryat, "my wife usually has at least a dozen ideas, and they're dresses." — Catholic Standard and Times.

The Same, but More So.

"Young Fashionable seems to excite much admiration among his set. That dudish fellow with him is his alter ego, isn't he?"

"Yes, only exaggerated."—Baltimore American.

The Dear Friends.

"Fred didn't blow his brains out because you jilted him the other night," said girl friend No. 1. "He came over and proposed to me."

"Did he?" replied girl friend No. 2. "Then he must have got rid of them in some other way."

Use of Charcoal.

A small dish of charcoal kept in the meat larder will keep the articles sweet and wholesome. Charcoal is a great disinfectant. A dish of charcoal kept in the icebox will also keep it smelling sweet and free from odors.

FLINT AND TINDER.

Making Fire In the Days Before We Had Matches.

A friend of mine of just my age used to laugh about his own boyhood and tell the story of his mother shaking him in bed and bidding him put on his boots when he dressed and his overcoat and wade through the snow to the next neighbor's to get a pan of hot coals with which to make the fire. I suppose Joe's mother had lost her flint. We kept our flint and what was called "the steel" in a round tin box such as would hold a quart of strawberries now, and it was on the mantelpiece in the kitchen. It was half full of tinder. Half the boys and girls of today do not know what tinder is or was.

Now, whoever was in the kitchen in the morning and found that the last hot coal of the wood fire had gone out took down the tinder box and struck the steel with the flint smartly and often until a redhot spark fell on the tinder; then very carefully she blew with her breath on any flakes of the tinder which had lighted until she had quite a little cove of lighted tinder. Then she took what we called a brimstone match and put that very carefully in the little hot hole. If all things worked well, the brimstone lighted and the wood of the match lighted, and she lighted the candle which made a part of the tinder box.

Oh, dear! There were thousands of tinder boxes in little Boston the day I was born, and a few years ago I tried to buy one as a curiosity, and I could not find one in any of the junkshops. In those days old women would stop at the door and ask you to buy some bundles of matches. They had made these themselves of pine wood four inches long, which they had dipped in hot brimstone at both ends. And those were the only matches that anybody ever heard of.—Woman's Home Companion.

THE CORDON BLEU.

At First an Order For Women Cooks Established by Louis XV.

When you hear a man spoken of as a "cordon bleu" you know he is a great cook, but few people have any idea of how and when the expression originated. The cordon bleu was at first an order for women cooks. It was established by a king—which makes it a real, proper order. Louis XV. once asserted to Mme. du Barry that only men could cook really well. The famous beauty challenged the assertion, but the king insisted that he was right—that women might be all right for boiling potatoes and performing the simpler operations of cooking, but that when it came to a work of art it took a man.

Soon after this argument the royal favorite invited the king to dinner. He praised every dish; he even expressed his august approval of the menu as a whole. Then his hostess triumphantly announced to him that the entire dinner had been prepared by women, from the arrangement of the menu and the selection of the dishes to the preparation of the sauces and the sweets and the serving of the several plats. Accordingly she claimed the foundation of an order of merit for her female cooks. The claim was at once granted, and the cordon bleu was first conferred upon the women of Mme. du Barry's kitchen.

Gourmets of today would be inclined to say that, however great the cooks of Mme. du Barry may have been in their day, the dictum of Louis XV. would be true today. There are now few great hotels or restaurants in the world in which cookery is a fine art where the chef is not a man.—New York World.

UNKNOWN MAN GOES OVER ENBANKMENT

After bidding people goodbye, it is stated, an unknown man, whose card was a bottle of whisky, leaped over Howe's point, just below the North Charleroi station at about 2 o'clock this afternoon, and is now in the Monessen-Charleroi hospital with slight hope entertained for his recovery. The man was seen by some children, as he went over the embankment. He rolled for a possible distance of 100 feet and landed in the branches of a tree then dropped from there to the ground not far from the railroad tracks.

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS IS REALIZED FOR CHURCH

Knights of Columbus Picnic a Huge Success

DECISION IS ANNOUNCED

In the neighborhood of $2,000 was realized for St Jerome's Catholic church through the picnic and outing held at Eldora Park yesterday under the auspices of the Charleroi council, No. 956, Knights of Columbus. The success of the outing was somewhat marred by the drizzling rain which fell in the morning, and made the park somewhat damp and soggy, but there was a large crowd present, nevertheless, from Charleroi and other places along the valley.

The chief feature of the outing was the decision of the trip contest, in which five young ladies took part. The result was made known in the evening from the dancing pavilion, and Miss Lydia Lambert was declared the first winner, and Miss Mazie Connell, second winner. The contest was for a trip to Atlantic City as first prize and one to Niagara Falls as second prize, the one collecting the most money for the church being declared first. Through this contest $1,494.50 was realized, the amount turned in by the various contestants being: Miss Lambert, $759.32; Miss Connell, $263.50; Miss Anna Buchanan, $236.60; Miss Lillian Shields, $145.50, and Miss Harriet Wagner, $89.50. The judges were Rev. T. A. Conlonner and J. P. Regan.

There was plenty of amusement provided for all those present during the day at the park. Besides the park amusements there was vaudeville furnished by the Pittsburg Hippodrome, the Wild Man from Borneo, and the Freak Pony, the Gipsy Queen, who told things past, present and future in the person of Miss Ida Carrol attracted much attention.

In the evening there was a vast throng present, and the park was crowded to its capacity. Dancing was the chief attraction, Jenkins orchestra of ten pieces furnishing music. During the entire day a brass band was at the park and furnished selections.

The money realized from the outing will be placed to the credit of the fund being raised for the construction of the superstructure of the church.

Michael Glasser, 56 years old, the only midget who ever resided in Charleroi, died this morning at 4 o'clock at his home, 1149 Lincoln avenue. Death came very suddenly, and without warning to the man's relatives. Glasser has resided in Charleroi for some time but was unknown to people in general. LARGE REPRESENTATION FROM ALL OVER COUNTY PRESENT AT CONVENTION

With large crowds from all parts of the county, the 15th annual convention of the Washington County Sabbath School Association opened its sessions yesterday at Washington. Rev. G. G. Kerr of Charleroi, the county president, presided, and the address of welcome was made by Judge J. A. McIlvaine, to which Rev. Kerr responded. Six hundred children took part in the opening exercises of the morning.

Addresses were made during the various day's sessions by Rev. C. H. Woolston of Philadelphia, Mrs. John Crawford of Bellevue, C. D. Meigs of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Bessie Brooks of New York. Grant Colfax Tuller of New York led the song service, which was especially inspiring. A conference on temperance work was led by Rev. E. S. Hassler, of Grove City in the afternoon. Last evening the services were devoted to commencement exercises of teachers in the training course, and diplomas were presented by Rev. B. W. Hutchinson of Pittsburg. A banquet was served in the evening to 200 members of the teacher's training classes.

There will be three sessions today and a parade of men will take place in which valley delegations are expected to take part. The Charleroi district is expecting to send 100 men. Commitees were appointed yesterday as follows:

Nominations—W. F. Alten, Rev. E. A. Cole, Rev. J. W. Watson, W. G. Simpson, G. S. Campbell.

Resolutions—Rev. R. Morris Smith, Rev. J. T. Hackett, Rev. Frank Smith.

KNOX NOT CONSIDERED AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATE

Not Thought He Will Relinguish Secretary of State Duties, to Accept One of Minor Honor

Nothwithstanding a persistent effort on the part of certain Allegheny county politicians to creaee a stampede among the Republican delegates of the State convention from that county to Secretary of State P. C. Knox for Governor, the friends of Congressman John K. Tener are not in the least disturbed over his prospects for the nomination. Intelligence is constantly being received from different parts of the State of an increasing sentiment in his favor, and that the political powers in all quarters of the State are sitting up and taking notice of his avail. While other favorite sons are mentioned, Mr. Tener has a decided advantage over all of them by reason of his wide [illegible] well known ability and [illegible] his location in the Western part of the State which, in the sequence of political events, is expected to supply the Republican candidate for Governor this term.

Secretary Knox's candidacy is not taken seriously. While he is recognized as first-class Gubernatorial timber, his present position as one of the leading National statesmen is thought to preclude his descent into State politiacs for a minor and temporary honor at best. Having served as Attorney General, United States Senator and Secretary of State, the latter position which he is now filling with honor both to himself and his country, it is not thought he will embarrass the Taft administration by abandoning the most honorable post he now holds.

There is no cessation in the activity of the promoters of the excursion to Harrisburg from Charleroi and the [illegible] district, and Mr. Tener will have a most enthusiastic crowd of supporters at the convention. As matters now stand he is [illegible] in the lead as the most available candidate, and there is every indication that he will gain in strength between now and the date of the convention.

MONESSEN PEOPLE DON'T HAVE TO CALL FOR LONG DISTANCE

A new ruling has been made for Monessen by the Bell Telephone company by which one desiring towns within the district radius need not call for long distance. Much time and annoyance will thus be avoided when calling Bell: Vernon, N. Charleroi, Donora and at Monongahela City, points within this limit.

California and Fayette City are no longer in the district radius for subscribers who have had their telephones installed or contracts changed since January 1, 1907. But all subscribers who took on a phone prior to that time or have not changed contract or conditions with the company, still have the two latter towns in the free service list if they have a district phone.

The first named places may be reached direct by merely ringing and calling central, the same as a local number providing the subscriber has a district rate and service. This will be considered a great favor by local people using the telephone regularly.

The new ruling does not apply to Charleroi.

Pfleghart Building a Marvel of Beauty

J. C. BRENTON ARCHITECT

Entire Four Floors Will be Used for Furniture Store.

With the opening of his new furniture store being held today W. B. Pfleghardt is formally dedicating one of Charleroi's most beautiful as well as costliest business blocks. This is the new four story bulding just completed on Fallowfield avenue to be used entirely by Mr. Pefighardt in his furniture business.

The architect for the building was J. C. Hannen, of Charleroi. The Charleroi Lumber company was contracting firm. Regan and Hormell were the contractors for furnishing the heat and A. D. Spencer of Charleroi installed the electric system. The electric elevator, the first for a Charleroi business house, was installed by the Otis Elevator company of Chicago.

The building occupies two lots, 414 and 418 Fallowfield avenue, and extends from Fallowfield avenue the full length of the lots to Long Alley. Efforts were made by the architects and builders to have the structure something out of the ordinary in appearance, and they succeeded admirably. Nothing but the best materials were used in the construction. Vitrified pressed brick were used, and the trimmings are in Indiana limestone. The Roman Corinthian style of architectural decorations was carried out throughout the bulding, and capitals of massive columns on the second floor, are Corinthian. The front of the builing is what might be termed an open glass front. The second story is fronted by two immense windows, between which is the entrance. These windows have large transoms of "three way prism" effect, thus reflecting light to the back and all parts of the room. The third and fourth floors are fronted by large windows the entire width of the building.

The basement which is considered the first story is finely equipped to be used as a stock room. All except the fourth floor have metal ceilings. [illegible] floor. The [illegible] floor. The [illegible] is by both [illegible] [illegible] is arranged in the most convenient [illegible] large furniture stock. [illegible] will enter [illegible] have arrangements [illegible] in case of fire, but be [illegible] for the accommodation [illegible] with a waiting room for ladies and toilet accessories in connection. A counting room and office are also provided for his own personal use.

Taken as a whole the building is one of the most up-to-date in the whole valley, and for a furniture store equals and surpasses many large city business houses. The interior has been [illegible] decorated for the opening today, and music is being furnished afternoon and evening. Souvenirs are being given to each adult.

Fathers' Day.

The beautiful custom of "Mother's Day," which is observed by special commemorative church services and individual tributes, the emblem of which is a white carnation, has suggested the question, "Why not a Fathers' Day?" Acting upon this suggestion the officers of the Spokane Ministerial Alliance and Young Men's Christian Association of that breezy city, where they have action and initiative, have fixed Sunday, June 19, for "Fathers' Day," and have suggested the rose as a suitable flower to wear for the occasion.

Some of the constructive teachings from the pulpit that "Fathers' Day" would suggest are: The father's place in the home. The training of children. The safeguarding of the marriage tie. The protection of womanhood and childhood. Whether applied in the light of religion or patriotism, the importance of these qualities is apparent as to requires no argument in their behalf and the need of such a day to be observed over all the country.

There are few occasions when a word is said in public for the "old man" who does the continuous plugging in order that the rest of the family may enjoy themselves and have a good time. If this movement of the Spokane clergy comes to be observed in a National way, the slight annual tribute thus paid will be no more than is deserved by the pack-horse of the human family.

A River Boulevard

In these days of organization and combination what's the matter with the auto owners of the valley combining and working for the construction of a river boulevard from the Allegheny county line, where improved roads are already constructed, to the Greene county line? In the matter of pleasure and recreation such a thoroughfare would prove a boon to machine owners, to say nothing of the utility of the project to the trade and commerce of the towns and community along the way.

The pleasure part of such a boulevard, while really the least argument in its favor, is nevertheless one of the strongest motives for its execution. It is needless to dwell upon the utility and benefits of such a thoroughfare. Every business house in Charleroi would gain in trade directly if a continuous improved road were to be built along the river front, and farming and gardening would be given a new stimulus. Nothing in the way of a single material project would add so much direct benefit as this. It is not an impossible project, and all that is necessary is systematic and persistent work to start the thing and keep it going. If the people demonstrate they want this road it will be constructed.

Borrowed Planks

It is interesting to note that the Democratic platform adopted at the State convention at Allentown Wednesday is composed chiefly of good Republican principles. For instance: Economy, conservation, the income tax, compulsory arbitration, liberal support of the public schools, good roads, increased powers to the Railroad commission. These are the important planks of the platform, notwithstanding they are not issues of the day, as they are already in practice, and their fulfilment is merely a matter of evolution and development by the Republican party that inaugurated them.

The Democrats have borrowed their platform planks from the Republican State administration. As the Connellsville Courier pertinently notes, "Economy in the administration of government is the old cry of the Outs against the Ins. It is worthy of consideration, but it is not to be assumed that those who want in would do any better than those who are in. As for the others, in the language of the Courier, "the Republicans have have working on them while the Democrats have been talking about them"

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The Appeal to Reason, a Socialist publication, wants to know who's a liar, especiallly in Congress. The editor should know there are no George Washingtons nowadays, even in Congress.

It seemed to be sort of a dodging game with the Democrats at the Allentown convention. The power of the Republican party in this State is no stranger to them.

If some of these speakers we hear would try less to make their speeches oratorial masterpieces, and say something once in a while, it would please their audiences much more.

Since it has been found impossible to have the Jeffries-Johnston fight in California, it might be a good idea to try Donora.

If so many people weren't so busy making a living they would go to New York in acceptance of Teddy's invitation to welcome him home.

A woman called to testify in court in New York city, said she didn't like to swear, but when the court insisted she said "damn."

It is not always Satan who puts it into one's head to play an evil trick upon some other human. Sometimes it is one's own idea.

When you go to the farm for your summer vacation, and hear a noise like unto a threshing machine, don't for a minute think it is such. It is only the farmer's boy figuring up the farm's profits on a calculating machine of the latest type.

The adjective "rich" used with the old famer is about as redundant as the adjective "old" used with the noun veteran in present day polite talk.

In some cities the chief aim of the city employes seems to be to separate the city from as much of the taxpayers' cash as was possible, and to say that considerable ingenuity is displayed in this endeavor is not exaggerating one bit.

The noted phrase "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," would hardly be applicable to the Foruth of July arrangements being made now

METHODISTS AND FIRSTS HAVE A BATTLE ROYAL

Presbyterians Too Much for Wesleyans However by Two Points

In a pitchers' battle in which the honors were about even, the First Presbyterians won from the Methodists last night by the score of 2 to 0. Three errors were made by each team, and with the scoring these has some bearing. The Presbyterians got their two in the second inning. Oller, first up, contracted a base on the first baseman's error. He stole second, while E. Girard, and F. Larue struck out.

Bastow singled bringing in the one tally. He himself tallied on the error of the catcher when he failed to get the third strike of G. Larue's. The hits of the Firsts were much scattered, one in the first, one in the second and one in the fifth.

The Methodists nearly scored twice, once in the third, when Snyder bid for two bases, and went to third. While strenuously playing the game, he was caught between third and home. In the sixth Snyder singled, and McKean was safe on an error. Snyder going to third on the same error. Then came three outs in swift succession. The score:

Flinty Plant Covers.

When Sir Humphry Davy was a boy about sixteen, a little girl came to him in great excitement:

"Humphry, do tell me my these two pieces of cane make a tiny spark of light when I rub them together?"

Humphry was a studious boy who spent hours in thinking out scientific problems He patted the child's curly head and said:

"I do not know, dear. Let us see if they really do make a light, and then we will try to find out why."

Humphry soon found that the little girl was right. The pieces of cane if rubbed together quickly did give a tiny light. Then he set to work to find out the reason, and after some time, thanks to the observing powers of his little friend and his own kindness to her in not impatiently telling her not to "worry," as so many might have done, Humphry Davy made the first of his interesting discoveries. Every reed, cane and grass has an outer skin of flinty stuff, which protects the inside from insects and also helps the frail looking leaves to stand upright.

What Thieves Won't Steal.

The last thing the woman did before leaving the flat was to put four rings in the clock on the mantel. "So thieves won't get them," she said.

"I should think that would be simply inviting thieves to run away with them," said her friend. "That is a handsome clock, and thieves like handsome clocks."

"They do," said the woman, "but they never will steal this clock. It ticks too loud. No wise thief will run away with a clock that goes like a threshing machine. It isn't the alarm about his person that he is afraid of, for he can stop the clock, but the occupants of the flat are likely to return before he gets safely away, and if a loud ticking clock is gone they will miss it the minute they step inside the door and maybe give him a hot chase for his plunder."—New York Press.

Nietzsche and the Invalid.

An invalid lady who often met Nietzsche found him the gentlest, kindest and most sympathetic of men. He "implored her with tears in his eyes not to read his books." Such was his knowledge of women that he was thunderstruck to find shortly afterward that the lady at once proceeded to read them all He was further stupefied by the discovery that, having read them she was utterly unmoved by the philosopher's unanswerable demonstrations that feeble persons like herself had no right to live and that women were distinguished by this, that and the other objectionable attribute It must have been a blow to him.—London News.

He soon gave up his law practice and engaged in railroad building and other construction work. He is a man of some means and has never shown a disposition to antagonize wealth. He insists, however, that public service corporations must pay their fair share of taxes. The Oldest.

Three old sports were chatting after a copious dinner, when one of them said "I bet $5 my name is the oldest."

The bet was immediately accepted, and he produced his card, reading "Mr Abel."

"Oh, dear $5!" said the second, showing his card. "I am Mr. Adam."

"Mine is the bet," replied the other, producing his card, and they could read "Mr. B. Gloning" printed on it.—Judge's Library.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in costume, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience."

A Third Need.

"Can't you make it three pairs?" asked the man who had made a study of his own case. "I'd like some short sighted ones to use on bill collectors."—Nashville American.

Agreed With Him.

Father (calling from head of stairs at 11:30 p. m.)—Jennie, don't you think it's about time to go to bed? Jennie—Yes, papa dear. What on earth keeps you up so late?—Pathfinder.

Spanish Sarcasm.

Americans who suffer, who weep, who even love? We were only acquainted with Americans who made money silently and spent it with a flourish of trumpets. We knew kings of steel and cotton who in moments of mental aberration bought a man-of-war to cross a lake or founded a university to educate their servants. But princes of architecture and princes of copper who, like simple youths of the Italian renaissance, declared war to the death for the beaux yeux of a fair maiden? Impossible! Unthinkable!—Madrid Liberal.

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things Last Sunday Charlie Evans having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present.

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The [illegible] said severely.

"'My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes'

"'Oh, how awful!' came Fannie's ready gasp

"'No, not awful at all!' and Mrs Evans was positively glaring at us 'I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord They died as little children.'

"'Dear me, how glad you must have been!' blurted out flustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a handspring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

Trained.

"My men work well," said a police commissioner, "because they are well trained. Training, you know, is everything."

He paused and smiled.

"Two physicians were discussing," he said "a certain pretty nurse.

"'Was she a trained nurse?' said the first physician.

"'She must have been,' replied the other. 'She hadn't been in the hospital a week before she was engaged to the richest patient.'"—Washington Star.

The Crater's Mouth.

"Now, Pearl Beem," asked the Wyoming schoolma'am during the geography lesson, "what is it that volcanoes throw up?"

"Wait a minute! I know—don't tell me!" cried Miss Beem excitedly. "It's saliva! Redhot saliva!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Way It Works.

"Did you ever notice how life's arithmetic is generally applied?"

"How?"

"It adds to your sorrows, divides your means, multiplies your cares and subtracts from your pleasures."—Baltimore American.

A Compositor's Blunder.

"In our last number, as we discovered unfortunately too late for correction, we announced that Mr. John Stuart Mill's inaugural address lately delivered before the University of St. Andrews had since been republished by him 'in the form of a five shilling elephant.' Even the most ardent believers in Mr. Mill's powers among our readers will probably have received this announcement with some incredulity. The fact is that by an error of the press the word 'elephant' was substituted for 'pamphlet,' and the mistake, although the proof was read and reread, unluckily escaped the corrector's eye."

More Than One.

"The average woman," said Grumbell, "has but one idea, and that's dress."

"Huh," snorted Marryat, "my wife usually has at least a dozen ideas, and they're dresses." — Catholic Standard and Times.

The Same, but More So.

"Young Fashionable seems to excite much admiration among his set. That dudish fellow with him is his alter ego, isn't he?"

"Yes, only exaggerated."—Baltimore American.

The Dear Friends.

"Fred didn't blow his brains out because you jilted him the other night," said girl friend No. 1. "He came over and proposed to me."

"Did he?" replied girl friend No. 2. "Then he must have got rid of them in some other way."

Use of Charcoal.

A small dish of charcoal kept in the meat larder will keep the articles sweet and wholesome. Charcoal is a great disinfectant. A dish of charcoal kept in the icebox will also keep it smelling sweet and free from odors.

FLINT AND TINDER.

Making Fire In the Days Before We Had Matches.

A friend of mine of just my age used to laugh about his own boyhood and tell the story of his mother shaking him in bed and bidding him put on his boots when he dressed and his overcoat and wade through the snow to the next neighbor's to get a pan of hot coals with which to make the fire I suppose Joe's mother had lost her flint We kept our flint and what was called "the steel" in a round tin box such as would hold a quart of strawberries now, and it was on the mantelpiece in the kitchen It was half full of tinder. Half the boys and girls of today do not know what tinder is or was.

Now whoever was in the kitchen in the morning and found that the last hot coal of the wood fire had gone out took down the tinder box and struck the steel with the flint smartly and often until a redhot spark fell on the tinder; then very carefully she blew with her breath on any flakes of the tinder which had lighted until she had quite a little cove of lighted tinder. Then she took what we called a brimstone match and put that very carefully in the little hot hole. If all things worked well, the brimstone lighted and the wood of the match lighted, and she lighted the candle which made a part of the tinder box.

Oh, dear! There were thousands of tinder boxes in little Boston the day I was born, and a few years ago I tried to buy one as a curiosity, and I could not find one in any of the junkshops. In those days old women would stop at the door and ask you to buy some bundles of matches. They had made these themselves of pine wood four inches long, which they had dipped in hot brimstone at both ends. And those were the only matches that anybody ever heard of.—Woman's Home Companion.

THE CORDON BLEU.

At First an Order For Women Cooks Established by Louis XV.

When you hear a man spoken of as a "cordon bleu" you know he is a great cook, but few people have any idea of how and when the expression originated The cordon bleu was at first an order for women cooks. It was established by a king—which makes it a real, proper order. Louis XV. once asserted to Mme. du Barry that only men could cook really well. The famous beauty challenged the assertion, but the king insisted that he was right—that women might be all right for boiling potatoes and performing the simpler operations of cooking, but that when it came to a work of art it took a man.

Soon after this argument the royal favorite invited the king to dinner He praised every dish; he even expressed his august approval of the menu as a whole. Then his hostess triumphantly announced to him that the entire dinner had been prepared by women, from the arrangement of the menu and the selection of the dishes to the preparation of the sauces and the sweets and the serving of the several plats Accordingly she claimed the foundation of an order of merit for her female cooks. The claim was at once granted, and the cordon bleu was first conferred upon the women of Mme. du Barry's kitchen.

Gourmets of today would be inclined to say that, however great the cooks of Mme. du Barry may have been in their day, the dictum of Louis XV. would be true today. There are very few great hotels or restaurants in the world in which cookery is a fine art where the chef is not a man.—New York World.

UNKNOWN MAN GOES OVER ENBANKMENT

After bidding people goodbye, it is stated, an unknown man, whose card was a bottle of whisky, leaped over Howe's point, just below the North Charleroi station at about 2 o'clock this afternoon, and is now in the Monessen-Charleroi hospital with slight hope entertained for his recovery. The man was seen by some children, as he went over the embankment. He rolled for a possible distance of 100 feet and landed in the branches of a tree then dropped from there to the ground not far from the railroad tracks.
